The latter shall rescind the ruling, if the rights of the intervener have been infringed by it, and refer the matter for a fresh decision to the municipality. For towns with their own charter the competent legislature (para 3) can direct that representation to the supervisory authority does not take place.

   b. was issued by an authority without competence in the matter, or

   c. was published in a manner contrary to law, it shall rescind the whole ordinance as illegal. This does not hold good if rescission of the whole ordinance manifestly runs contrary to the legitimate interests of the litigant who has filed an application pursuant to the last sentence in para 1 above or whose suit has been the occasion for the initiation of ex officio examination proceedings into the ordinance.

4. If the ordinance has at the time of the Constitutional Court’s delivery of its judgment already been repealed and the proceedings were initiated ex officio or the application was filed by a court, an independent Administrative Tribunal, the Federal Tender Office or an applicant alleging direct infringement of his personal rights through the ordinance’s illegality the Court must pronounce whether the ordinance contravened the law. treaty). It pronounces on the illegality of such pronouncements of a Land also upon request of the Federal Government and on the illegality of such pronouncements of the Federation also upon request of a Land Government. It further pronounces on the illegality of such pronouncements also upon request of a person alleging direct application by a Land Government, by one third of the National Council's members, or by one third of the Federal Council’s members whether Federal laws are unconstitutional. A Land constitutional law can provide that such a right of application as regards the unconstitutionality of Land laws lies with one third of the Diet’s members. The Court pronounces furthermore whether laws are unconstitutional when an application alleges direct infringement of personal rights through such unconstitutionality in so far as the law has become operative for the applicant without the delivery of a judicial decision or the issue of a ruling; Art. 89 para 3 applies analogously to such applications.

2. If the litigant in a suit lodged with the Constitutional Court, entailing application of a law by the Court, receives satisfaction, the proceedings initiated to examine the law’s constitutionality shall nevertheless continue.

3. The Constitutional Court may rescind a law as unconstitutional only to the extent that its rescission was expressly requested or the Court would have to apply the law in the suit pending with it. If however the Court concludes that the whole law was enacted by a legislative authority unqualified in accordance with the allocation of competence or published in an unconstitutional manner, it shall rescind the whole law as unconstitutional. This does not hold good if rescission of the whole law manifestly runs contrary to the legitimate interests of the litigant who has filed an application pursuant to the last sentence in para 1 above or whose suit has been the occasion for the initiation of ex officio examination proceedings into the law.
4. If the law has at the time of the Constitutional Court’s delivery of its judgment already been repealed and the proceedings were initiated ex officio or the application filed by a court, an independent Administrative Tribunal, the Federal Tender Office or an applicant alleging direct infringement of personal rights through the law’s unconstitutionality, the Court must pronounce whether the law was unconstitutional. Para 3 above applies analogously.

5. The judgment by the Constitutional Court which rescinds a law as unconstitutional imposes on the Federal Chancellor or the competent Governor the obligation to publish the rescission without delay. This applies analogously in the case of a pronouncement pursuant to para 4 above. The rescission enters into force upon expiry of the day of publication if the Court does not set a deadline for the rescission. This deadline may not exceed eighteen months.

6. If a law is rescinded as unconstitutional by a judgment of the Constitutional Court, the legal provisions rescinded by the law which the Court has pronounced unconstitutional become effective again unless the judgment pronounces otherwise, on the day of entry into force of the rescission. The publication on the rescission of the law shall also announce whether and which legal provisions again enter into force.

7. If a law has been rescinded on the score of unconstitutionality or if the Constitutional Court has pursuant to para 4 above pronounced a law to be unconstitutional, all courts and administrative authorities are bound by the Court’s decision. The law shall however continue to apply to the circumstances effected before the rescission the case in point excepted, unless the Court in its rescissory judgment decides otherwise. If the Court has in its rescissory judgment set a deadline pursuant to para 5 above, the law shall apply to all the circumstances effected, the case in point excepted till the expiry of this deadline.

The deadline may not in the case of treaties specified in Art. 50 and of law-modifying or law-amending treaties pursuant to Art. 16 para 1 exceed two years, in the case of all others one year.

2. If the Constitutional Court establishes that a treaty is contrary to law or unconstitutional upon expiry of the day of the publication of the judgment an order by the Federal President according to Art.65 para 1 second phrase concerning this state treaty or a resolution of the National Council according to Art. 50 para 2 is invalidated.

The challenge (application) can be based on the alleged illegality of the electoral procedure or on a reason provided by law for the loss of membership in a general representative body, in the European Parliament, in a municipal authority entrusted with executive power, or in a constituent authority (representative body) of a statutory professional association. The Court shall allow an electoral challenge if the alleged illegality has been proved and was of influence on the election result. In the proceedings before the administrative authorities the general representative body or statutory professional association has litigant status.

2. If a challenge pursuant to para I subpara a above is allowed and it thereby becomes necessary to hold the election to a general representative body, to the European Parliament or to a constituent authority of a statutory professional association in whole or in part again, the representative body’s members concerned lose their seat at the time when it is assumed by those elected at the ballot which has to be held within a hundred days after delivery of the Constitutional Court’s decision.

3. The premises for a decision by the Constitutional Court in challenges to the result of popular initiatives, consultations of the people or referenda will be prescribed by Federal law.
